

Black Sea Fiddle Statue

The voice of the Black Sea, the soul of Anatolia... The kemence is not just an instrument; it is the most sincere expression of a deep-rooted culture. This handmade kemence sculpture transforms that profound cultural heritage into an artistic object, bringing it to your home, office, or collection. The composition, featuring a clay-textured body, fine wire details, and wood shavings on a concrete base, elevates this piece from a simple miniature sculpture to a true work of art. It is the most original way to reflect your love for the kemence or your bond with the Black Sea in your space.

Kemence Sculpture: Authentic Details

There is no machine coldness in this sculpture; the warmth of the human hand is felt in every inch. The pear-shaped body of the kemence, the neck, the peg details, and the wire marks have all been individually hand-sculpted. The natural texture left by the clay material on the surface gives the work both a rustic aesthetic and a unique character. The wood shavings scattered around the base are a thoughtful touch that completes the composition; it feels as if you are observing an instrument that has just emerged from a master's workshop. No two sculptures are exactly alike; each one is unique.

Respect for Black Sea Culture

The kemence is the indispensable symbol of the Black Sea musical tradition. Having existed for centuries in the highlands, at weddings, and in songs of longing with its sound and soul, this instrument gains a permanent form through this sculpture. For musicians, people of the Black Sea, those who value cultural heritage, and collectors seeking original objects, this sculpture is not just a decorative item but a meaningful symbol. When placed in your study, music corner, or the most prominent spot in your living room, it tells a story with every glance.

Between Decoration and Collection

This sculpture is one of those rare pieces that holds both decorative and collectible value. Thanks to its concrete base, it stands stable and balanced on any flat surface; it displays a stylish presence on a shelf, console, display case, or desk. Our work, still in its clay stage, achieves perfect harmony with natural wood or concrete surfaces. While creating a warm contrast in a modern interior, it fits perfectly into spaces with traditional decor. It also stands out as a highly impressive object for photography shoots.

Produced via Custom Order

This sculpture is not mass-produced. Each one is carefully crafted individually after an order is received. Size preferences, color tone, and coating details can be customized upon request. You can order it for your own collection or as a meaningful gift sculpture for a loved one. This would be the most thoughtful gift for someone devoted to Black Sea music, a musician relative, or anyone who loves cultural objects. Special delivery options are available.
