Book Sculpture

The book sculpture is a unique art form that transforms one of the most powerful symbols of knowledge, culture, and enlightenment into a permanent work of art. The work shown in the photograph is a book sculpture in monumental scale, standing 220 cm tall, specifically designed and produced for a Provincial Public Library. Produced by the Dogan Sanat Heykel.org Studio, this piece was photographed in front of the studio before completion and has reached an impressive visual power with a bronze patina surface treatment.

Book Sculpture Design Features of the Work

Displaying a grand stature with its 220-centimeter height, this book sculpture reflects the dynamic form of an open book in three dimensions. The pages of the book are designed in a slightly waving manner, which grants the work a sense of movement and vitality. On the front face of the book, the inscription "Provincial Public Library 1955" is engraved using an embossed technique. This text honors both the identity and the deep-rooted history of the institution. The entire surface of the work is covered with a bronze patina application, which significantly increases both the aesthetic value and the outdoor durability of the book sculpture.

Material and Production

The book sculpture is built upon a long-lasting and durable metal construction, with its exterior surface coated in bronze patina. This production method grants the work the visual weight and elegance of real bronze while facilitating transportation and assembly processes. The natural bronze tone on the surface reflects light differently from various angles, creating a changing visual effect at all hours of the day. The sculpture is manufactured to be suitable for outdoor use and is resistant to all kinds of weather conditions.

Different Figures of Book Sculptures Located in Places Like Germany, Kadikoy, and Adana

The book is humanity's most deep-rooted symbol of knowledge and culture. Book sculptures placed in public spaces symbolize the value that the location places on education, culture, and enlightenment. This work, placed in front of a library, carries a powerful visual message inviting visitors and passersby to knowledge. Standing in front of a Provincial Public Library that has served since 1955, this monumental book sculpture crowns the institution's decades of accumulation and contribution to society with a permanent work of art.

Usage Areas

The book sculpture is an ideal piece of public art for libraries, schools, university campuses, cultural centers, municipal squares, and open areas of educational institutions. It can be ordered with personalization, including special text, dates, or logos reflecting your institution's identity and values. Size options are also determined entirely according to the customer's space and needs. You can contact us for book sculpture orders and detailed information.
